

1985 VALHALLA

Pass
Pg 134 Song 29
Terry Junior

A black and white photograph of a school hallway. On the right side, there is a row of metal lockers. In the center, a long metal bench runs diagonally across the frame. A white t-shirt with a large, dark Greek letter Psi (Ψ) is draped over the right end of the bench. The floor is a light-colored, polished surface. The overall atmosphere is that of a typical high school environment.

In Appreciation

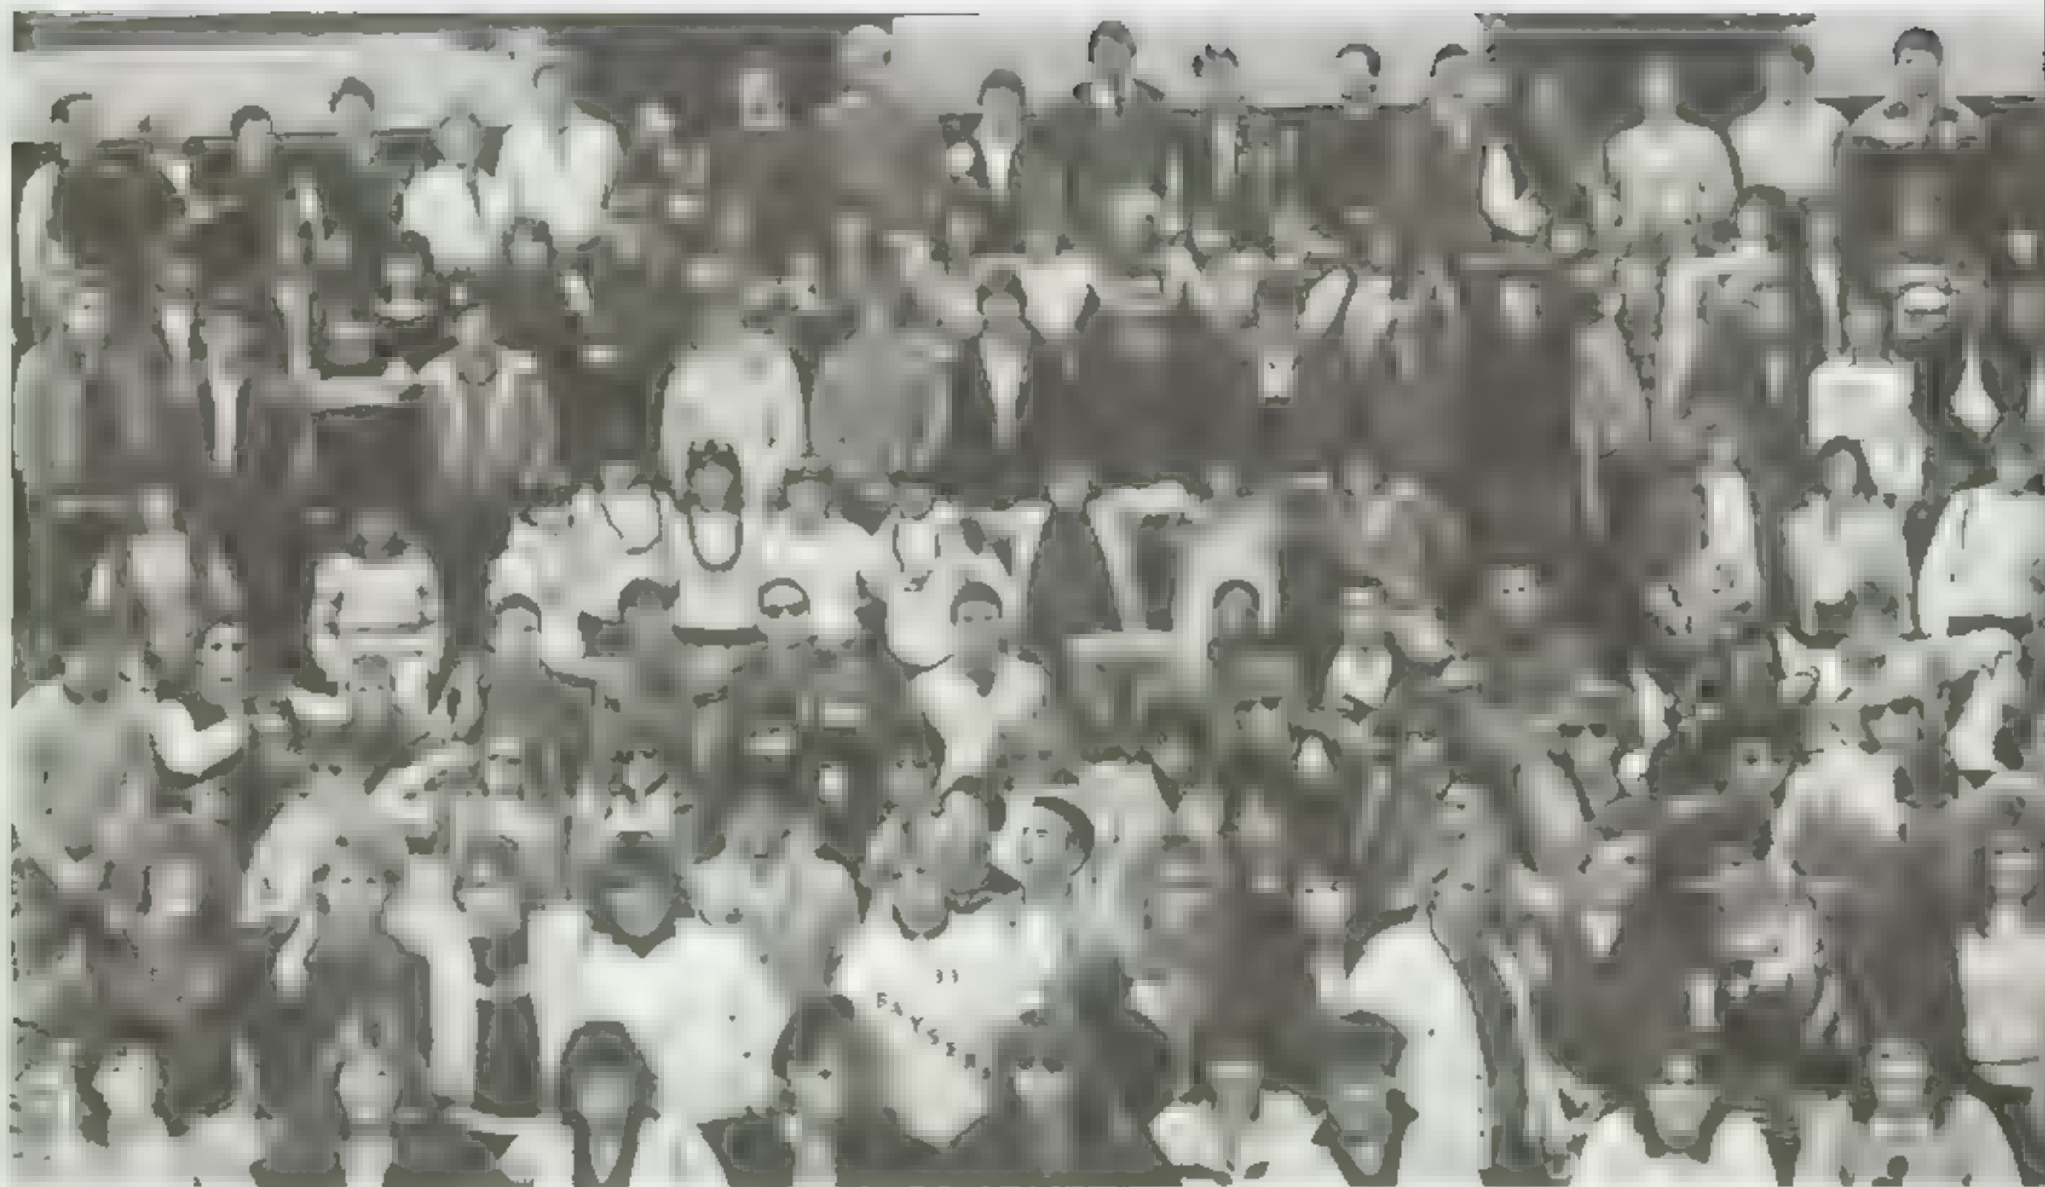

To the staff, for many hours spent on the Valhalla when they had better things to do. (like sleep).

To the advertisers, for supporting us and to all the students who have purchased this yearbook and made it what it is.

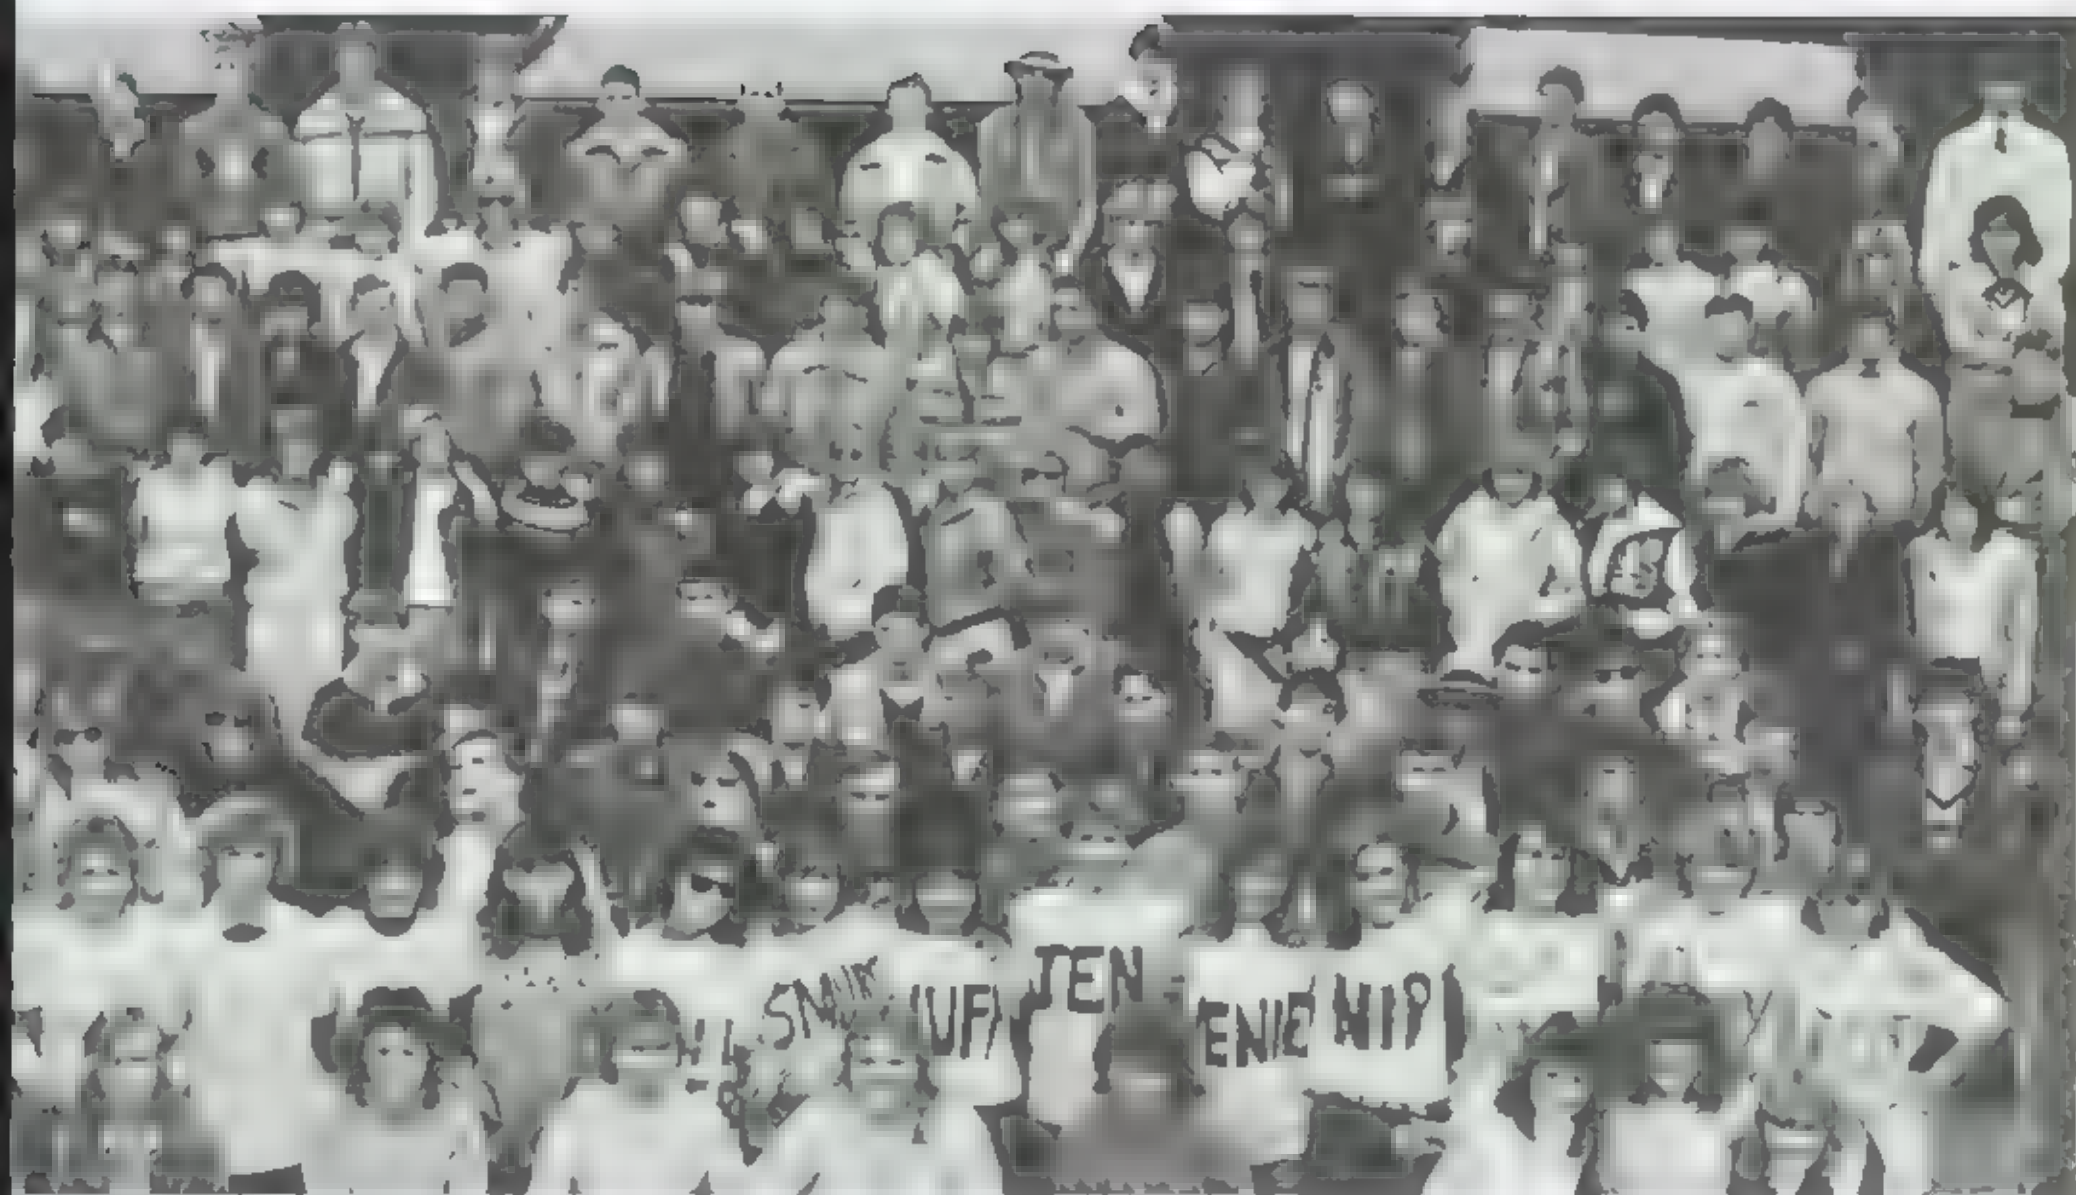

To Joan Boss, for all her hours of help.

To Mother Morrow, for keeping some sanity in room 81's pet emporium.

To our families, for allowing us to miss many dinners and come home late.

Senior Class

1984-1985

Valhalla Co-Editors: Stacy Towar and Carol Hill

Ms. Morrow said she invited me to be co-editor of Valhalla partially because she knew if I had a problem I'd come ask. Well, I came back again and again and Carol and I asked and asked so after hours of questions and total confusion we finally put it all together and came up with this years yearbook. It never would have happened without our staff's extra hours, Morrow's patience, and Mr. Bumeley's understanding.

Thanks for the experience - couldn't have received anywhere else!
Good luck class of '85!

Stacy Towar

Club photos mysteriously disappeared, pages were numbered wrong, and time seemed always on the verge of running out. Chaos frequently erupted from among the pages of this year's yearbook, interrupting plans and at times making it very hard to smile. This isn't a perfect yearbook, but it's my best, and although sometimes it wasn't good enough, I don't regret anything. I know now that I couldn't possibly learn more in one year.

Learning was crucial to this yearbook. For experience met our staff at every turn. Fortunately, Mrs. Morrow was there time and again to control the confusion. Many times unexpected problems sprang up and time was needed to untangle the knots. I would like to thank Mrs. Hoffman and Mrs. Forner for understanding when I had to take that time away from their classes.

In completing my post as co-editor, I hope that you, the student body, are pleased with your yearbook because it is you who crafted its personality. Best of luck class of '85!

Carol Hill
